RUGBY RAID ON THE BORDERS.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

Edinburgh, September 30th.
 For a first of the season game that between Heriot's School F.P.'s and Hawick was quite remarkable. At starting the pace looked too hot to be maintained, but the majority of the players showed themselves possessed of such wonderful stamina that they were going as strongly at the finish as at the beginning of a contest which Heriot's won, against odds. Heriot's made an unfortunate start, G. M. King twisted a knee so badly that he may possibly not be able to play again, and Hawick scored briskly. The Champions, however, recovered, and put in some capital work; Kinneir, Banzies, and Gow Brown being prominent. Leading Glasgow club invaded the Borders with success. In the game between Bellkirk and the Western Academicals there was only one club in it; but Jedforest tested Glasgow H.S.'s form severely.

Results—
 Heriot's (F.P.), 23; Hawick, 13.
 Bellkirk, 0; Glasgow Academicals, 27.
 Jedforest, 4; Glasgow H.S. (F.P.), 23.
 Melrose, 3; Hillhead H.S. (F.P.), 3.

BETTER LEAGUE PROSPECTS.

Two specially interesting League holiday matches were played between the leading clubs of Edinburgh and Glasgow and both resulted in draws. Hearts did remarkably well in dividing the points with Rangers, but on present form the Hibs ought to have defeated the Celts. The regular week programme was of a satisfactory standard, the contests were interesting, and in some cases, as at Ayr, where Celtic were beaten, excitement ran high. The match at Ayr was not the only instance of form being falsified, several results of a surprise order being returned and serving to keep alive interest in the race for points. The features, however, were the success of provincial clubs and the failures of the Glasgow and Edinburgh representatives. Both Edinburgh clubs were defeated, and only Rangers of Glasgow's six senior League members secured victory. Such a triumph for provincial football is as welcome as it is unusual, and encourages the hope that the contest for the honours of the First Division may not after all be the walk-over for Rangers that it is pretty generally assumed to be. For the present Airdrieonians still head the list of competitors with the Rangers close behind them.

Results—
 Hibs, 0; Celtic, 0.
 Hearts, 0; Rangers, 0.
 Ayr United, 4; Celtic, 2.

our shortest golf hole.
 J. H. Taylor thinks that he has discovered in Italy "the shortest golf hole in the world"—it is only 70 yards. But Scotland can at least equal this. The seventh hole at Spey Bay—the Bin—is likewise a 70-yarder, with a bogey score of three.
 BECOMING A "BIT OF A CROCK"!

Harry Vardon is having a hard time these days to qualify in the great golfing tournaments, as witness his display in the Southern professional tournament. When talking with him at Troon in June, after he had failed to qualify for the Open Championship, Harry remarked: "One can't go on always; but this is my first experience in 20 years of failing in the Open Championship."

THE LATEST GOLF CLUBS.

There is the possibility of a new vogue in golf clubs. A dozen years ago there was a huge run upon the big scotch-faced driver, surnamed the "Dreadnought." Now it is the deep-faced driver that attracts attention. Walter Hagen used one at Troon 11 inches in depth—and I hear that a Glasgow club-maker has sold about 100 of the type, somewhat altered and improved. The idea of the deep-faced club, as used both by Hagen and Sarazen at Troon, was to get a low and straight ball when playing against the wind.

AMERICA'S GIANT AIRSHIP
BUILT IN GERMANY.

America's giant airship, the ZR-3, now under construction at Friedrichshafen, at the Zeppelin Company's factories, will be ready for its trans-Atlantic flight by November. The ship has a total length of 656 ft., a maximum diameter of 90 ft., and a maximum height—including the landing buffers—of 103 ft. These dimensions represent a size never before seen in the air. The hangar now being built at Lakehurst, N.J., to house the mammoth ship is so big that the National Capitol at Washington could be put inside it, with the exception of a small portion of the dome. The Woolworth building, if placed on its side, would go into the Lakehurst hangar with plenty of room to move around. The ZR-3 will be just comfortably lodged in the huge hangar at that.

Two thousand horse-power, produced by five engines made by the Maybach Company, of Friedrichshafen, under the supervision of United States navy experts, will propel the giant craft. The ZR-3 contains sleeping quarters like those in a Pullman car, with a passenger cabin containing six compartments, a kitchen, dining-room, large windows, and luxurious fittings. Twenty enlisted men will be quartered in bunks along the corridor running all the way along the keel of the airship.

Two million five hundred thousand cubic feet of hydrogen gas, requiring 300 tons of coal for its production, are required for one filling of the big bag. This, however, is enough to last for a flight of 7,600 miles—the non-stop capacity of the ship.—Chicago Tribune.

INTERPORT TRIAL

The first of the Interport Trials was played on the Club Ground on Saturday.

Hudson was unable to turn out and at the start Solla was absent; however, Jones came on after fifteen minutes' play and took the centre forward position, Roberts going inside left. Angus was playing right half for the Whites, Swan taking his place in goal. The Whites were the first to press, Roberts going through on his own, he passed out to Simpson when tackled and that player sent in a hot shot which hit the upright and rebounded into play. Howard had a good chance given him after good work by Castledine and

Pet but he sent wide from six yards range. The game was very equal, both forward lines attacking in turn. McElvie did well to kick clear from the goal line when Kirby shot. Bell beat Bishop and sent in a good centre which Sepher cleared well. The Whites went away and Omar centred to Jones and Roberts who had an open goal, but Swan ran out and gathered the ball in great style. Jones and Roberts went through and Jones finished a good movement by shooting by.

Roberts scored the first goal from twenty-five yards range, Swan was seemingly un-nighted and made a good effort to reach the ball when he did see it, but it passed through his legs. Jones was going through when Wheeler brought him down

just outside the penalty area, McElvie took the kick and passed to Forsyth who sent in a hot shot which Swan held well.

The Whites forwards tried hard to get the ball from Swan and the goalkeeper had to throw it out for a corner. Bell presented Howard with a good chance but that player shot by from a few yards out.

Howard passed to Castledine who shot hard and Wilson did well to clear.

Roberts tried a shot at the other end which the goalie saved well. Bishop mis-kicked and let Bell through, but Lelliott saved

the situation by kicking out. Simpson received on the left and beat Gerrard and Swan did well to pull the ball from under, Omar centred well from the right and the ball was sent to Forsyth who scored the second goal for the Whites with a great shot from twenty yards, which went into the far corner of the net. Roberts gave Jones a good chance but Wheeler cleared.

Half time: Whites, 2; Blues, 0.

Some changes were made in the teams

after the interval, Gerrard and Wheeler changed places and McElvie changed with the Blues left half. Omar did good work on the right and sent across a good centre which Swan did well to clear. McElvie passed well to Bell and that player centred well. Wilson held the ball but Howard bustled it out of his hands and with an open goal hit the crossbar. Castledine sent in a hot shot which Wilson did well to fix out. Sepher cleared when Bell centred and at the other end Swan cleared well from Omar's centre. Castledine sent in a good header which Angus headed clear from the goal mouth. Roberts passed to Forsyth and he sent in a good first time shot which went just over. Post ran through and shot from six yards out but his shot hit the post. Bell and Howard gave Lelliott some trouble on the right but the halfback cleared well. Jones ran through and passed inside to Roberts, who sent in a first time shot which Swan did well to hold. Castledine was responsible for a hot shot that Wilson couldn't hold, but the goalkeeper threw the ball out for a corner. Forsyth ran down and passed in went just by. Angus gave Forsyth a good opportunity and that player passed to Roberts, the inside left shot well but the ball went just past the post. Bishop put his goal in danger by handling twenty

KING'S RES. v. SOUTH CHINA.

This match was played on the South China ground and attracted a crowd of several thousands, mostly Chinese. The pace from the start was very fast and the heat made it very uncomfortable for the players and referee, the latter having a very busy time owing to the evenness of the play. The interval arrived with no score.

The strong attack set up by the King's in the second half wore down the Chinese defence after twenty-two minutes' play and Dangerfield receiving the ball from the left beat the defence and went on to land the ball in the net out of the goalie's reach.

For a time this reverse seemed to dishearten the Chinese and the King's were attacking strongly. Carr received well out and was running through when he was brought down in the penalty area but this being considered a fair charge the play continued and South China cleared. Dangerfield was next responsible for a bit of clever work; beating two opponents fairly easily he was close up to the goalie when he sent in a drive but the ball struck the goalkeeper and rebounded to the underside of the crossbar and into play and South China brought off a good clearance.

The South China then had a turn of attacking and forced two corners and a moment later the centre forward shot over the bar from close range. The final whistle sounded leaving the King's winners by a goal to nil.

BLUEBELL v. KOWLOON RES.

Playing at home the Kowloon Reserves could field ten men only and went down to the Bluebell in a fast game by two goals to nil. The Sailors won the game in the first half—Mills and Sadler scoring. After the change of ends play was more even, but this half being blank, the sailors won as above.

SACRED HEART v. CLUB DE RECREIO.

At Sookunpo the Club de Recreio won by three clear goals. The play was more even than the score indicates but the club de Recreio deserve their win. CRICKET.
FIRST LEAGUE.
K.C.C. v. I.R.C.

The Kowloon Cricket Club first string went down rather badly in their first league match of the season which they played against the Indians at Kowloon on Saturday. Losing the toss they were sent in first to bat. Their first two men opened up well and made 80 between them before they were disposed of. After this a rot set in and the whole side were out for the addition of 40 odd runs. Lindell was the only one who made anything like a stand against the Indians and his 19 not out were very carefully acquired. A. C. Arculli bowled well for the Indians and it was mainly due to him that the Kowloon men were disposed of so lightly. The Indians replied with 169 for the loss of four wickets. A. H. Rumjahn's 62 was almost faultless and he had hard luck in going out to a difficult catch by Fletcher. The K.C.C. bowling was inclined to be weak whilst their fielding was not up to usual.

CHINESE R.C. v. C.S.C.C.

This match resulted in a draw. Wong batting for the Chinese contributed 81 towards their total of 179. His innings was not exactly a faultless one and at least two fairly easy catches were missed in slips. The Civil Service men, tried hard to equal their opponents' score and they made 117 for the loss of five wickets when stumps were drawn. Harper made a very useful 60.

FRIENDLY MATCHES.

CRAIGENGOWER v. THE UNIVERSITY

1st XI.

This friendly match, which was played on Saturday at Happy Valley, was made noteworthy by the Rev. E. K. Quick's performance with the leather and Balhatchett's clever display with the willow. Both are University players. The former was mainly responsible for getting the other side out for the small total of 46, taking seven wickets for 17 runs. In his last over he had the honour, which is probably the first this season, of performing the "hat trick." He also gave a bright display with the bat, knocking up half a century before he was caught by Leonard. Neither Fritz nor Laurence, the two star batsmen for the Home side, could make anything of Quick's bowling, though the former managed to get into double figures. Balhatchett had the honour of hitting up a century and when stumps were drawn he was still undefeated.

The University won the match with the almost ease by seven wickets.

H.K.C.C. v. THE NAVY.

Playing at home on Saturday the Hongkong Cricket Club first eleven met and defeated the Royal Navy by 71 runs. The Navy went in first and opened badly and continued to fare badly until Lieut. Edwards and Lieut. Besant came together and pulled the game round a little. They were all out for 79. The Home side opened up in a convincing manner, the first six wickets producing plenty of runs. The side was out for 150. Of the bowlers Lammer had the best average for the match, taking seven wickets for 57 runs.

YACHTING.

YESTERDAY'S SAILING RACE.

SINGAPORE YACHT DEFEATED.

A very interesting sailing race took place yesterday between two yachts, one belonging to a member of the Singapore Yacht Club and the other belonging to a member of the Royal Hongkong Yacht Club. The race resulted in a win for the Hongkong yacht by something like seventeen minutes in a total distance of 8.3 miles. The yacht in question was Margaret II (sailed by Capt. Bradenburg of Singapore) and the Holla (sailed by Mr. N. A. V. Croucher of Hongkong). The race was run on handicap lines and the Margaret II received 15 seconds per mile.

The Holla was the first to cross the starting line in front of the Yacht Club premises and gained four seconds on Margaret II. There was a very light breeze blowing which was quite suitable to the type of boats engaged in the race. Both craft kept level for some distance and rounded the Channel Rocks at almost the same time. From that point the Holla went ahead and at the Cust Rock Buoy she was four minutes ahead of Margaret II and eight minutes in front at the Club Mark buoy. This advantage was mainly due to the misfortune of the Singapore yacht in striking a calm patch. The Holla continued to gain steadily and passing the Channel Rocks for the second time was twenty minutes in front. Then curiously enough the same misfortune which had befallen the Margaret II came to the Holla. She was becalmed for seven minutes. But all chances of Margaret II coming in first were spoiled on the beat for home when she had the misfortune to break her goose-neck which put the spinaker out of action.

The race was witnessed by a number of yachting enthusiasts, who, owing to the kindness of Mr. Van Andell in placing his motor boat at the disposal of members, were able to follow the race round.

The following are the times:—Holla (Mr. N. A. V. Croucher): finishing time, 4 hours 37 mins. and 35 secs; corrected time, 4 hours 37 mins. and 35 secs.

Margaret II (Capt. Bradenburg): finishing time, 4 hours, 56 mins. 43 secs; corrected time, 4 hours 54 mins. 23 secs.

The race commenced at 2.30 p.m. For Sunday next an interport sailing event has been arranged between Hongkong and Singapore. The competing helmsmen are:—Hongkong: Messrs. H. Arthur and J. H. Pearce, Singapore: Capt. F. Bradenburg and Mr. H. A. Davidson. The following are the competing yachts and crews:—Glady's (J. L. Adams); Starbark (E. Cock); Admiral (H. E. Scriven) and Hire'sell (D. H. Blake).

GENERAL HOLIDAYS IN THE COLONY.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT OF THE ORDINANCE.

It is notified in the Government Gazette that it is proposed to introduce into the Legislative Council at an early date a Bill to amend the Holidays Ordinance, 1912. By this Bill, Section 3 of the Holidays Ordinance, 1912, is repealed and the following section is substituted therefor:—

The following days shall be general holidays:—

- (1) Every Sunday.
- (2) The first week-day in January.
- (3) Chinese New Year's Day, or if that day should be a Sunday then the following day.
- (4) The first week-day following Chinese New Year's Day, or if Chinese New Year's Day should be a Sunday then the Tuesday following Chinese New Year's Day.
- (5) Good Friday.
- (6) The day following Good Friday.
- (7) Easter Monday.
- (8) The Birthday of His Majesty the King, unless it shall be ordered by the Governor, by an order published in the Gazette, that His Majesty's Birthday is to be kept on some other day, and then, such other day.
- (9) Whit Monday.
- (10) The first week-day in July.
- (11) The first Monday in August.
- (12) The second Monday in October.
- (13) Armistice Day, or if that day should be a Sunday then the following day.
- (14) Christmas Day, or if that day should be a Sunday then the following day.
- (15) The twenty-sixth day of December, or if that day should be a Sunday then the following day, or if Christmas Day should be a Sunday then the Tuesday following Christmas Day.

The following section is added at the end of the Holidays Ordinance, 1912:—

8. Subject to the provisions of section 33 of the Code of Civil Procedure relating to certain civil process, any summons or warrant may be issued, any summons may be served, any warrant or order may be executed, and any arrest, search or seizure may be made, on any day, whether a general or public holiday or not.

The Attorney-General has attached to the Bill the following statement of its "Objects and Reasons":—

1. The Sunday Observance Act, 39, Cap. 11 c. 7, provides that no writ, process or warrant is to be served or executed on Sunday except in cases of treason, felony or breach of the peace.

2. Section 68 of the Magistrates Ordinance, 1890, provides that a warrant to apprehend any person charged with an indictable offence and a search warrant in respect of any similar offence may be granted, issued and executed on any day. This section relaxes the provisions of the Sunday Observance Act so far as they relate to indictable offences, but it does not enable an arrest on warrant for a summary offence to be made on a Sunday. It is doubtful what exactly is meant by a search warrant "in respect of any indictable offence."

3. Section 32 of the Code of Civil Procedure provides that no service in an action or other proceeding (i.e., in a civil proceeding) shall be made on Sunday, Christmas Day or Good Friday.

The above seem to be all the general statutory provisions in existence in Hongkong on the subject. Particular Ordinances provide that process under those Ordinances may be executed on Sundays or holidays, e.g., the Opium Ordinance, 1914, and the Pharmacy and Poisons Ordinance, 1916.

5. There seems to be a curious absence of authority on the subject of making arrests without warrant on Sundays.

6. It seems desirable to provide generally that summonses and warrants may be issued, and arrests, searches and seizures may be made, on any day, whether a Sunday, or a holiday or not. This is done by Clause 3. The special provisions of section 32 of the Code of Civil Procedure are excepted.

7. Clause 2 alters the list of General Holidays so as to make it agree with what has now been the practice for some years. The alterations made are as follows:—

- (a) The first week-day following Chinese New Year's Day is added.
- (b) The first week-day in July is added.
- (c) Armistice Day is substituted for the Monday nearest to the 11th of November. If Armistice Day falls on a Sunday the day following Armistice Day is to be a holiday.

The reference to the possible adoption by the Chinese of the Gregorian Calendar is omitted.

EUROPEAN LADY HELD UP

IN KENNEDY ROAD.

AN IMPUDENT AFFAIR.

An attempt was made by Chinese footpads, to molest a French lady named Mlle. Simonnet in Kennedy Road at a late hour on Friday night. The lady was proceeding to her home at No. 55, Kennedy Road, by ricksha when a number of Chinese came out of the shadows about a hundred yards below the Chinese laundries (between the laundries and the Wesleyan Chapel) and stopped the ricksha. One of the men twisted the ricksha puller's nose and two others of the men made a movement towards the lady in the vehicle. Mlle. Simonnet screamed for help and continued to scream despite the threatening attitude of the men. She also smacked one of the men across the face with her open hand. There are a number of houses in close proximity to the scene of the hold-up and the desperadoes, dismayed at the lady's attitude made off and quickly disappeared into the darkness. Mlle. Simonnet afterwards reported the occurrence to No. 2 Police Station.

THE "LUNG SHAN" MAIDEN TRIP.

CANTON'S CONGRATULATIONS.

The latest addition to the fleet of the Hongkong, Canton and Macao Steamboat Co., Ltd.—the Lung Shan, which is to replace the old paddle-ship Hunan—made her maiden trip to Canton on Friday night. The passengers were composed exclusively of the Directors and officials of the Company and their friends—a convincing expression of confidence in the merits of the vessel, which has been constructed down to her engines entirely by local labour, under local supervision and from locally prepared designs. Needless to say, those who were favoured with invitations felt no hesitation in accepting them, but, on the contrary, looked forward to the excursion with pleasurable anticipation, which was fully justified by the experience. The outstanding features of the vessel from the layman's point of view are her commodious saloon and her spacious and well-lighted cabins equipped with beds, instead of bunks, and with hot and cold water. The recommendations, too, made recently for the prevention of piracy had practical expression in iron grills designed to prevent a repetition of those devices by which vessels have been taken possession of owing to a concerted movement on the part of their passengers. If these grills serve the purpose for which they are intended the expense which they involve and any slight inconvenience they may occasion will be fully compensated for by the sense of security they will afford. In all other respects the Lung Shan is up to date; indeed, her machinery embodies improvements which have only been discovered by engineering science since three years; so that a comparison of her with the old Hunan, which has done such good service throughout the forty years she has been in commission, furnishes a faithful and striking picture of the progress which has been made in ship construction during the intervening period.

On arrival at Canton a numerous company were entertained toiffin on board, those present including representatives of the Consular Body, Maritime Customs, Postal Service, Kwangtung Administration, and leading members of the European and Chinese commercial communities, together with a large sprinkling of ladies. An excellent repast was followed by some interesting speeches. The Hon. Mr. P. H. Holsvak, as Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Steamboat Co., extended a cordial welcome to the guests, and pointed out that in placing the Lung Shan, the finest river steamer that had ever sailed those waters—on the run between Hongkong and Canton the Company were showing their confidence in the future of the two ports, whose fortunes were indissolubly linked together. The Hon. Mr. Fletcher, Colonial Secretary of Hongkong, endorsed this view and said that the Government of Hongkong had every sympathy with the development of communications between the Colony and Canton, and he hoped in the near future to see the projected motor-rail between the two places become an accomplished fact. As the Chairman had invited criticism he might perhaps mention that he had heard that there was a soap dish in the bathroom; but that was the only complaint he could make. Mr. Fletcher might have added that the wash-basins in the cabins could have been rather larger with advantage and that the mirrors would be more serviceable to the majority of ladies if they were a little lower. Dr. C. C. Wu, on behalf of the Canton authorities, congratulated the Steamboat Co. on its enterprise and said that a cursory inspection of the ship appeared to justify all that had been claimed for her. He regretted that their Hongkong friends did not pay more frequent visits to Canton—he did not know whether the reason was pressure of business or a fear that their wives would be unable to resist the temptations offered by the shops; he could assure them that if they came they would be very welcome. It was desirable that they should know and understand one another as well as possible, and he would like them to see that, despite all that was said by the rumour-mongers, there were tangible evidences of real progress in their municipal administration. Mr. Sun Fu, mayor of Canton, and the British Consul, also joined in the chorus of congratulation and good wishes.

At dinner, on the way back to Hongkong, the company drank to the Commander (Capt. Bell Smith) and officers of the ship and the Secretary (Mr. John Arnold), who had done so much behind the scenes to ensure the success of the trip. Unfortunately, however, either duty or modesty prevented any of these gentlemen from bearing the tributes paid to them. The Captain, it may be mentioned in passing, brought his ship alongside at Canton with remarkable skill, there being only a very few feet to spare bow and stern.

Finally, the thanks of the guests for a most enjoyable and hospitable entertainment were conveyed to the Directors of the Company by Mr. E. D. C. Wolfe. Hongkong was reached at about 10.30, the vessel having slowed down on the way in order that she might not arrive before her berth was available.

It is noteworthy that on the same night, about the same time another hold-up took place in Kennedy Road at Monmouth Path, which is about half a mile further along the road from where Mlle. Simonnet was stopped. In that case three men, one of them whom was armed with a revolver, held up three Chinese, including one woman. Money and jewellery were stolen to the value of $102. Monmouth Path appears to be a favourite haunt of highway men on Kennedy Road and the assumption is that the bench at the top of the path is a meeting place for young Chinese couples, who become easy prey for these prowlers.

HONGKONG, OCTOBER 29TH, 1923.

HUNTING SOCIALISTS IN JAPAN.

THE newspapers of Japan now reaching us are greatly exercised over the "orgy of murder" as it has been described, which took place in the devastated regions immediately after the terrible earthquake. We have learnt through the cables of a wholesale massacre of Koreans and "certain others mistaken for Koreans" and world-wide publicity has been given also to the disclosures made in court martial proceedings taken against Captain AMAKUSA who has confessed to the strangulation of two very prominent socialists and a small child—his nephew—this foul deed being perpetrated in what he conceived to be "the highest interests of the State."

These episodes by no means represent all that has to be recorded in connection with this "orgy of murder." Further incidents of the kind are now being published. Those who are in touch with Japanese politics will not need to be told that the hostility manifested towards the Koreans was inspired not by the fact that they were of another race, but because it has been the practice to view them as propagators of "dangerous thoughts," preaching, that is to say, political doctrines regarded as undermining the foundations of the Imperial Throne of Japan. Official crusades against the spread of what is termed "dangerous thoughts" in Japan were waged long before the earthquake occurred. They inevitably exercised a specially potent influence on the military and police forces of Japan and accounts for the desperate efforts which appear to have been made after the earthquake to round up all whom the police authorities had marked down as "Socialists." It is stated that the Tokyo police called in the Thirteenth Cavalry Regiment to their aid, and in Kametodo and the neighbouring parts of Tokyo they arrested in three days thirteen hundred people, who were packed like sardines in the police station. The number of "Radicals" found among these prisoners is given as 120, and it is now disclosed—some six weeks after the event—that "nine Radicals and five others" were stabbed to death in the Kametodo Police Station, Tokyo. It is stated that "up to the present both police and military seem inclined to justify the killing as a lawful exercise of the powers given them under martial law. The actual killing is said to have been done by the troops." Four of the five persons who are not classified by the police as "Socialists" are described as "respectable" people who had bonded themselves together in a "vigilance society." What crime these—or any of them for that matter—committed to justify, under martial law, their being stabbed to death is not stated in the accounts. One can quite understand that Vigilance Societies would be able to render very useful service to the community in the terrible circumstances which followed upon the earthquake, and we trust many of them did, though the only accounts we have seen given of their operations are not such as reflect credit upon them. There is one very shocking episode recorded concerning them which suggests that their title is justified only by their keenness in hunting down Socialists. Of this story one of our Japan contemporaries says: "The facts have been generally known to the public, but mention in the Press has been forbidden until now, and there is still an embargo on some of the most important phases." The story concerns the massacre of fifty-eight "worker refugees" from Tokyo. On reaching Itabashi they were examined by gendarmes who had arrested them and it was decided to send them to Takasaki. Their hands were bound, and they set out in single file for Takasaki, escorted by twelve policemen. When they arrived at an intermediate point named Kumagai, there was a commotion already in progress. A band of Vigilantes—composed of members of Young Men's Societies and Reservists Societies—had espied a party in a railway carriage and had dragged out of the train "a merchant and four others for the reason that one of the party looked like a Socialist who had lived in the town a few years ago." The party were taken to a police station, but after examination by the Head of the Police, they were liberated. This greatly exasperated the Vigilantes, and at this moment the long line of fifty-eight "worker refugees" from Itabashi, with their police escort, came into view, and we are told in the papers that "when the Vigilantes saw them they gave a shout and came rushing and brandishing their weapons, and then fell upon the workers, who tried to flee, crying for help. They were killed—to a man, it appears. The policemen were overpowered and could do nothing. Similar stories are told of these "Vigilantes" in many other districts, including Yokohama, where they are said to have shot dead scores of railway workers who had sought refuge there from an outlying district. It is said that these men were mistaken for hoodlums. It is stated that the disorder of the Vigilantes within the jurisdiction of the Kanagawa police station—the only one to survive the disaster—was "beyond description." "During the daytime the warehouses in Yokohama and the offices were freely ransacked, and at night massacres of the working classes on the thoroughfares were committed. Over eighty heads of a certain factory in Kanagawa were butchered in a single night. Stories like these put a different complexion on that previously given in the reports as to the way in which the situation was handled under martial law. The redeeming feature of the situation is the desire manifested in the Press of Japan that these cases should be probed to the uttermost and that due punishment should be meted out to those responsible for these atrocities. The Press is not adopting the attitude that "things like that you know, must be," in such an overwhelming calamity. It would have been surprising indeed if there had been no conflicts between soldiers and hoodlums to report, and everyone would have been prepared to make due allowance where soldiers and police and the Vigilantes had overstepped the bounds in their desire to protect property from the depredations of looters, but many of these astonishing crimes need much better justification than has yet been offered for them.

News has reached Shanghai of the death of Mrs. Jenner Hogg, at Camberley in Surrey, where she had been living for most of the time since she left China about two and a half years ago. Mrs. Jenner Hogg was for many years one of the best known and most popular ladies in Shanghai, and her death will be mourned by many friends. As Miss Mackrill Smith she came out to China in 1897, herself and one other being then the only two unmarried girls in Shanghai. About a year later she married Mr. Frederick Hayley Bell, then a partner in the flourishing house of Adamson, Bell & Co. There are five children of that marriage who are living now. Mrs. Percy Lavers, the eldest son in Australia who has never been in China; Mr. Herbert F. Bell, Lieut.-Colonel F. Hayley Bell, D.S.O., and Mrs. L. N. Leefe, who is now in England. Mr. Bell died in 1899 and in 1907 Mrs. Bell married the late Mr. Jenner Hogg, who died in Shanghai in February, 1920. Mrs. Jenner Hogg, says the P.M. Daily News, will long be remembered as an ideal hostess and Unkaza, now a part of Jesuit University, was known far and wide for its generous and delightful hospitalities. In earlier years Mrs. Hogg was well known as a very skilful member of the A.D.C. She was one who took the greatest pleasure in doing kindnesses and her friends will ever remember her with affection.

U.S. PRESIDENT'S EULOGY OF MR. LLOYD GEORGE

THE STRUGGLE IN GERMANY.

ANOTHER FOREIGNER CAPTURED BY BANDITS.

LATEST CABLES.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

THE PROPOSED REPARATIONS CONFERENCE.

FRENCH LIMITATIONS CRITICISED IN LONDON.

LONDON, October 27th.

A number of London newspapers are at present sceptical as to the outcome of the negotiations regarding a Reparations Conference on account of the limitations the French have placed on its scope. It is pointed out that the French offer in nowise approximates to General Smuts' suggestion.

It is recalled that the Conference of Bankers, held last year failed owing to the attitude of the French delegate on the Reparations Commission.

FRENCH REPLY CREATES GOOD IMPRESSION IN U.S.

On the other hand, opinion in America, as revealed by Washington telegrams, is favourably impressed by the French reply, and official quarters are confident that the bridge created is likely to lead to a practical adjustment. Fears were previously prevalent that France might make her acceptance conditional upon the United States becoming a full member of the Reparations Commission, which would consolidate President Coolidge's opposition and doom his efforts to failure, but the American consensus of opinion now follows the opinion voiced by Mr. Lloyd George at Washington, welcoming the French reply as a step in the right direction and declaring that nobody should stand on technicalities.

FRANCE CONSENTS TO APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEE.

LONDON, October 27th.

Great Britain has received the French assent to an International Committee, but it is generally admitted that the nature of the Note puts a full-dress conference on the reparations questions out of the question.

COMMITTEE WILL BE PURELY ADVISORY.

PARIS, October 27th.

It is emphasised that the committee of enquiry into Germany's capacity will be purely advisory and the Reparations Commission will not be bound to adopt its recommendations.

ITALY FAVOURS U.S. COLLABORATION.

ROME, October 27th.

It is semi-officially reported that Italy has favourably replied to the British proposal regarding the invitation to the United States to collaborate with the Allies in a solution of the reparations questions.

NEW YORK PRESS COMMENT.

NEW YORK, October 27th.

The newspapers rejoice at the agreement regarding a reparations conference. The World says that President Coolidge and Mr. Hughes have crossed the rubicon.

The Tribune wants the Allies to insist that defaulting Germany be brought to book.

The Times says that the old cordial spirit of common effort for the common good has been restored.

BELGIUM ACCEPTS SUGGESTION.

BRUSSELS, October 27th.

Belgium has notified London and Washington of her acceptance of the suggestion that a reparations conference be appointed by the Reparations Commission.

LLOYD GEORGE'S VISIT TO U.S.

WASHINGTON, October 27th.

A letter from President Coolidge, which was read at a dinner to Mr. Lloyd George, given by foreign correspondents, said that Mr. Lloyd George's visit had been a piece of good fortune for both countries and the cause of international accord.

ECONOMIC CONFERENCE.

THE INTOLERABLE SYSTEM OF EXCHANGE.

LONDON, October 27th.

Yesterday's discussions at the Economic Conference regarding Empire currency had especial relation to Mr. Darling's scheme for common Empire currency bills for the Dominions, using sterling currency, which Mr. Massey urged should be considered by a special committee, with a view to alleviating the intolerable system of exchange transfers at present hampering trade between Great Britain and Australasia.

Mr. Bruce (Australia) strongly supported the scheme, but Mr. Burton (South Africa) condemned it and urged a return to the gold standard as the only effective remedy.

The Conference decided to appoint a committee to examine the whole question of Imperial transfers.

NEW AMERICAN AMBASSADOR TO BRITAIN.

WASHINGTON, October 26th.

Mr. Frank Kellogg, a Republican, formerly Senator of Minnesota, has been appointed the American Ambassador to Great Britain.

APPOINTMENT COMES AS A SURPRISE.

NEW YORK, October 27th.

The selection of Mr. Kellogg as the successor of Col. Harvey considerably surprised Washington, chiefly because his name had never been previously mentioned in this connection, although it is now known that the late President Harding had him in mind for the post before he died.

A CLOSE FRIEND OF THE LATE PRESIDENT HARDING.

WASHINGTON, October 27th.

Mr. Kellogg was a close friend of the late President Harding, and was a leader of the mild reservationists in the fight over the Versailles Treaty.

He came to the fore as special Government counsel during the Taft Administration, which included proceedings against the Standard Oil Trust and actions to dissolve important railway mergers.

EARLIER CABLES.

FRENCH NOTIFICATION TO UNITED STATES.

NEW YORK, October 26th.

Unusual prominence is given to the Curzon-Hughes correspondence, but so far, opinion has had no time to crystallise.

The New York Times says General Smuts' cry that Europe has no longer the strength to save herself must have been written without a feeling of real despair, for as far as President Coolidge and Mr. Hughes are concerned he presumably has there was special reason for having faith in America; yet America can only help on Mr. Hughes' conditions.

The World writes that it now turns out that Mr. Harvey spoke for the administration and it is practically certain General Smuts knew what Mr. Harvey was authorised to say when he appeared for a conference. It declares the real purpose of the campaign opened by General Smuts was to smoke out Mr. Foincare and make him reveal whether his aims can be defended in a conference or rest on intrigue and force.

PARIS, October 26th.

It is authoritatively stated that France has notified the United States that she will welcome the presence of an American representative in the committee of experts to investigate Germany's capacity to pay, but such committee must be appointed by the Reparations Commission and be subordinate thereto.

The statement adds that there can, however, be no question of opening negotiations with Germany until France is satisfied that passive resistance has entirely and practically ceased.

NEW YORK, October 26th.

The German Ambassador, who has returned from a visit to Germany, declared that Germany will not attempt to float a loan in America or elsewhere until the reparations question is settled.

DESTRUCTION OF CHURCH PROPERTY IN JAPAN.

SIR,—Through the kind hospitality of your paper I was allowed to call attention to the serious losses that have incurred in Bishop Henslett's diocese of South Tokyo, which includes Yokohama, during the recent earthquake in Japan—a loss of seventeen churches besides dwellings, hospital, dispensary, schools.

May I again ask your hospitality to make it known that the British Chaplain in Yokohama (Rev. F. M. Strong) will be passing through the Colony on Friday en route for England on the s.s. California, and that it has been arranged that he should address a meeting at the Cathedral Hall from 5.15 to 6.15 on that day, in which all who may be interested are invited. A collection will be taken which will be paid to the Japanese Earthquake Disaster Hongkong Relief Fund and will be earmarked for Bishop Henslett's diocese—Yokohama, etc.

ORIGIN OF LIFE.

SIR OLIVER LODGE ON LEGITIMATE RESEARCH.

Sir Oliver Lodge has addressed tentative speculations to the staff of the National Physical Laboratory on whether science would solve the mystery of the origin of life.

There is an immense amount of radiation, he said, travelling about space. The whole amount of solar radiation is portentous. The fraction which the earth catches, though terrestrially so important, is but a minute fraction of the whole—less than the two thousand millionth part—and it seems to have been going on for hundreds of millions of years. The radiation from many of the stars is greater.

Our instinct, Sir Oliver added, rebelled against the idea that all this radiation resulted in nothing. He could more readily imagine that light resulted somehow in the generation of matter.

Some highly estimated men of science hope at any rate that some day the chemistry and physics of life may be so far understood that a highly complex assemblage of organic molecules may simulate and, perhaps, adopt its functions.

I see nothing inconceivable in this. Life has originated somehow, and if we can get to understand anything about its origin, the effort is legitimate.

ANOTHER MISSIONARY HELD FOR RANSOM.

PEKING, October 27th.

With reference to the Reuter's telegram from Washington on October 24th, relative to the instruction given by the Washington Government to the American gunboat at Changsha to return the fire of any field guns directed against the property of American Nationals, it is explained that upon receipt of the latest reports from Changsha, indicating that the city might be bombarded in the course of factional fighting in that neighbourhood, the American Legation notified the Canton Government that if the gun port of Changsha were bombarded the U.S.S. Pittabob, which is stationed there, would return the fire.

WIRELESS CONTRACTS IN CHINA.

FEDERAL CONTRACT SANCTIONED.

PROTEST FROM JAPANESE AMBASSADOR AT PEKING.

PEKING, October 28th.

The Peking Leader says that, following receipt of information that the Cabinet, last Tuesday, formally sanctioned the Federal wireless contract, the Japanese Legation has further protested on the ground that the contract is a violation of the Mitsu contract of 1918.

The Minister of Communications has deputed the Vice-Minister, Mr. Yoshizawa, who yesterday unsuccessfully tried to arrange an interview with the President in order to lodge a protest.

The Peking Leader adds that the American Legation has been informed and the Cabinet has given full approval to the Federal contract, a few details only remaining for arrangement.

The construction of the first station at Shanghai will probably begin this winter. The Leader learns authoritatively that, except at Tokyo, there has been no talk of the formation of an international group to take over the Federal and Mitsu contracts. The American Government has consistently insisted on the invalidity of the monopoly clause in the Mitsu contract and has steadily refused to negotiate with Japan regarding a compromise.

GIRL GOLFERS' CHAMPION- SHIP PLAY.

A 13-YEARS-OLD SEMI-FINALIST.

Sixteen girl golfers who had qualified from all parts of the country took part in the final stages of their championship on the Stoke Poges course, Slough, last month.

Girls, says a writer in a London paper, have been much more precocious than boys on the links, an Irish maiden of 17 in Miss May Hackett having won the women's open championship, and the even more famous Miss Cecil Leitch having reached the semi-final of that event at the same age. Consequently, the spectators were looking for youthful prodigies, and they obtained a good deal of satisfaction.

In some respects the best performance was that of Miss Barbara Strohenger, of Sunningdale, aged 15, who entered the semi-final. She had to meet two rivals of the comparatively mature age of 18, Miss Marjorie Levy, of Harrow, and Miss Victoria Villiers, of Sunningdale, and, tackling them both with the stoical calm and resolve of a James Braid, she was never a hole down to either. She beat Miss Levy by 7 and 6 and Miss Villiers by 3 and 2.

Wearing a dazzling jersey—a woollen creation in mauve, red, blue, and yellow from Fair Island, in the Shetlands, such as the Prince of Wales made fashionable on the links last year by donning one to drive himself into the captivity of the Royal and Ancient Club—Miss Strohenger presented a striking figure.

Tall and broadly built for her years, she looked worthy to do battle with anybody in the field. She showed her determination in the afternoon at the seventh hole, which calls for a tee shot of 120 yards over a stream on to a narrow plateau green.

Three times Miss Strohenger hit her ball into the stream and three times she picked it out philosophically to try again, appreciative of the point that disaster might yet overtake her opponent. It did, and Miss Strohenger, although requiring 9 for the hole—by far her most unhappy experience all day—only lost it by a stroke.

In the semi-final she meets Miss Barbara Law, of Kidderminster, who is 17. The other semi-final is between Miss Katharine Nicholls, also of Kidderminster, and also 17, and Miss Mary Evelyn Mackay, of Leatherhead, the sole survivor among those who qualified at the age-limit—19. The final will be decided in the afternoon.

Miss Barbara Law, a golden-haired girl, who is so big that she has already attained the dignity of having her hair "done up," and bedecked with a band, hit her shots with splendid power and precision. She was hard pressed by a 19-years-old player from Drumpellier, who gratified the Scottish people in the gallery by appearing in the tartan skirt of her clan. Miss Law was only one up at the twelfth, but she stayed the pace better than her rival and securing the next three holes, beat Miss Inglis by 4 and 3.

Her cousin, Miss Nicholls, a slightly built little girl, with her long black hair done in a plait which flops over her shoulders as she stoops to putt—and conquer—also played well. She holds the gold bandy medal of the Ladies' Golf Union—a trophy for which winners of club medals throughout the country compete. Her calm before a crowd is supreme. These two cousins are the particular young prodigies of the Midlands.

Miss Mackay, for all her control and compactness of swing, had a desperate struggle to beat Miss Dorothy Pearson, the 15-years-old player from Tunbridge Wells. Miss Pearson—her luxuriant brown hair flying in the wind—made some astonishing drives for one of her age.

In each round she was within 40 yards of the first hole (447 yards) in two shots. She was on the green at the sixth (395 yards) with a drive and a spoon. These were typical shots. Three down at the twelfth, Miss Pearson lost only on the last green to Miss Mackay. Twice at that hole Miss Pearson was bunkered.

SLEEPLESSNESS.

COUNT YOUR FRIENDS.

Counting visionary sheep jumping through a hedge is an old way of fighting insomnia, but I have heard of a more fascinating one, writes a correspondent in a London paper. It consists of trying to count the number of people you know. While the average man leading a busy life in a big city like London must know hundreds of people, from old school friends and friends of the family to people he has met within the last few days, he will find that he can count up only a comparatively few with ease.

After numbering only 30 or 40 he very likely begins to run dry. Suddenly another face or name flashes into his imagination and he lets his thoughts off on a fresh track, so that he may in a few moments add another 8 or 9 to the list.

By the time he has reached 70 or so he has probably become so interested in the enumeration that he has forgotten all about his sleeplessness and so is very likely to drift off to sleep.

"Land Nationalisation and Agriculture" was the subject discussed at the Independent Labour party's summer school at Huddersfield on September 14th. Dr. Robert Dunstan proposed that every landowner should pay an economic rent for his land into a common fund for social service. "Until the question of the ownership of the land was settled other schemes of social reform could not be adequately carried out."

Does your Baby laugh like this?

Baby laughs because he is happy—he is happy because he is healthy—his good health is a result of right feeding. That is why the Glaxo-fed baby is a laughing baby.

Glaxo is the solids of pure, rich milk made as digestible by the Glaxo Process that baby's delicate little stomach assimilates it easily. In Glaxo—prepared simply by adding hot boiled water—Baby finds all the nourishment he needs. It is a complete food, entirely germ-free, attended by none of the risks of disease that make ordinary milk so dangerous.

If you would be the happy mother of an ever-laughing baby, give him

TUTANKHAMEN'S TOMB.

EXPLORER'S THRILLING STORY.
AMAZING TREASURE CHAMBERS.

At the invitation of Almina, Countess of Carnarvon, a distinguished company was present at the New Oxford Theatre, Oxford-street, on September 21st, to hear Mr. Howard Carter lecture on "The Discovery of the Tomb of Tutankhamen."

Mr. Carter, in the course of his lecture, said to compare Ancient Egypt, or the Valley of the Kings, and all they had bequeathed to us, brought to light from time to time by excavation, with material discovery such as steam, electricity, and the like through other scientific channels, would be ridiculous. But archaeological investigation showed us that such discoveries as the harnessing of those powers to our uses was the only real advantage, other than the science of medicine, that modern science might claim over the ancients. Culture in the way of intellectual development and the arts in general were in ancient days higher in many ways than they were to-day. Egyptian art expressed its aim in a stately and simple convention. Lack of perspective in their art implied limitation; therefore not a little must be surrendered to that limitation. But within its own convention, belonging as it did to its country and period, the best Egyptian art embodied refinement in every way—it embodied love of simplicity, patience in execution, and it never degenerated to an unideal copy of Nature. This fact was manifested by the material in the tomb of Tutankhamen. They were surrounded by the immense productivity of the art of its period which it contained. Tutankhamen's tastes might have been those of the average young Egyptian nobleman rather than those of a youth of royal blood. In this tomb it was the domestic affection that was the dominant idea rather than the austere religious conventions that characterized the other royal tombs in this valley.

The Valley of the Tombs of the Kings he described as awe-inspiring. Its strangely solemn and almost gloomy character was not unproductive of delight. Nature there seemed to stand before one naked in all her majesty. Everything around was calm and motionless, as if prepared for eternal duration. Upon reaching the heads of the gorges the doorways of the kings' tombs themselves struck one by their wonderful contrast to the rugged sunburnt rock in which they were harboured. Those openings led to long corridors and bays of imposing height and width that ran always deeper and deeper into the rocky cliffs. Their sides were sculptured and coloured, their ceilings painted with innumerable scenes and legends of the underworld. The farther one advanced into those subterranean caverns the deeper one became involved in endless processions, gods good and evil, until one arrived in the great vaulted chamber of pillars, wherein rested the sarcophagus that enclosed the royal mummy—the earthly remains of the descendant of Ra. Of Tutankhamen Mr. Carter said he was a very shadowy king of whose reign we scarcely knew anything—"a king," he added, "who has been much discussed by writers in the last few months, and whose tomb has been written about by authors who have never seen it or its contents."

"CHARLIE CHAPLIN" STICK. The lecturer told how the site of the tomb was covered by the debris thrown up by previous explorers who had never suspected the presence of these wonderful chambers beneath them, and he told how this rubbish, to a height of 30ft., had to be cleared away before the entrance to the tomb was discovered. Then came the breaking of the wall and the penetration of the tomb, down the narrow flight of stairs leading, seemingly, into the bowels of the earth. The audience passed with him along the mysterious passages to the marvellous chambers beyond, the wonderful pictures thrown on the screen giving to them, even if only in a small measure, something of the excitement which must have stirred the hearts and minds of these men as they entered apartments crammed with the treasures of a long past age. Over and over again Mr. Carter used the phrase "covered with solid gold" in describing this or that treasure shown on the screen. He referred to the discovery of the most beautiful monument he had ever seen. This was in a small chamber eastwards from the sepulchral chamber. "There is a simple grandeur about this monument," he said, "that makes an irresistible appeal to the imagination, and I am not ashamed to confess that it brought a lump to my throat. There were a number of other wonderful things in the chamber, but we found it hard to take them in at the time, so inevitably were one's eyes drawn back again and again to the lovely little goddess figures." Among the extraordinary relics depicted were some sticks with crooked handles exquisitely carved to represent African and Asiatic captives, and one of these bore such a strong resemblance to Charlie Chaplin with his bowler hat on that the lecturer humorously called attention to it.

"It must be remembered," he said, "that though we have removed from the antechamber some 600 large and small objects, this only represents a quarter of the material that is in the tomb, in the annex, the tomb-chamber, and the inner store-chamber. This is a task which will require some two or more years' work. Moreover, the material before us, without doubt, of greater interest and value than that with which we have already dealt." The task of the coming winter would be the dismantling of the golden shrines within the sepulchre and the examination of the Royal mummy within its sarcophagus, where, after the claims of science had been satisfied, they would leave the mummy lying. Here, also, he believed, they would find the crowns and other regalia of Tutankhamen. Imagination filtered at the thought of what the tomb might yet disclose.
